3 STATEMENT OF WORK

3.1 Background

The migration of Ukrainian health workers to other European countries has been increasing over the last decade. Resistance to the health reform and the implications of the COVID pandemic contribute to the continuing acceleration of the health workers' outflow, increasing the gap between the supply of and demand for health workforce in Ukraine. However, the importance of health professional mobility is still neglected and understudied. There is a need for informed strategies to retain health professionals and encourage their return. But before that there is a need of having a clear picture of the current situation of health workers' migration and its impact on the whole healthcare system. The lack, poor quality and validity of existing data undermine the understanding of the problem, its nature and depth. A research on the Ukrainian health workforce migration can be extremely important. It will help the HRS and the GoU to better understand the current trends of health workers' mobility and be better prepared for finding effective solutions.

The insignificant volume, low quality, in particular reliability, of the existing data on the migration of medical workers in Ukraine and its main reasons do not allow to reliably assess the existing problems, their nature and scale. Thus, the study of migration of health workers in Ukraine is extremely important. The results of such a study should help the Government and society to better understand current trends in health worker mobility and to take a more sound approach to finding effective solutions.

Support is required to conduct a research of the situation of migration of Ukrainian health workforce. The obtained results will be provided to the GoU as evidence necessary for development of informed decisions aimed at improvement of health workforce in Ukraine.

The purpose of the activity is to conduct a survey (by face-to-face interview, or by telephone survey in case if face-to-face contacts are limited due to quarantine restrictions) of at least 1500 randomly selected persons of working age who work in health care institutions or receive education in medical schools. It is estimated that a representative sample of health care facilities and medical schools in Ukraine will be about 300 institutions. It is expected that the selected institutions will receive contact information for employees (medical staff) who have gone to work or for permanent residence abroad in the last five years. The survey should cover all regions of Ukraine (in Donetsk and Luhansk oblasts only territories controlled by the Government).

Preparing of a sample of institutions and development of main survey tools (questionnaires and instructions) is carried out by HRS team.

The organization is expected to train its supervisors / interviewers together with HRS experts. The form of training will be determined additionally with consideration of the epidemiological situation.

It is foreseen that the organization will ensure that control procedures cover at least 10% of the interview during the field phase or no later than one week after its completion. The contractor must also provide information on the reasons for not receiving information from the respondents in all such cases.

The main results of the work will be at least 1500 duly completed questionnaires and a corresponding data set in SPSS format.

This grant will be awarded under the USAID HRS Project, Objective 3 activity "Conduct study on the current situation with health workforce migration in Ukraine".

The research must be approved by the Ethics Committee.
